This fan-fiction article, Domdaniel, was written by Witcher190. Please do not edit this fiction without the writer's permission.

Domdaniel, was a world existing in the multiverse, which was destroyed during the Conjunction of the Spheres. Characterized by its cavernous geography, it was the original world of the gnomes.

History

At some point in their history, the Grigori visited that world, from where they took genetic samples with which they would create the gnomes. Which would be abandoned to their fate there, after not being suitable for what the Grigori were looking for (Unlike the elves).

After several thousand years, the gnomes would evolve and develop their societies, to the point of even developing multiversal travel. Some speculate that they may even have made contact with the dwarves, which would explain their later alliance (Although this alliance may simply have occurred when they arrived on the Continent). This allowed them to escape from their world in time, before it was destroyed, thus reaching the Continent, since its best scholars had calculated exactly when the First Conjunction of the Spheres would occur well in advance. Something that would be repeated later with the Second, although nobody paid attention to them.

Known species

- Gnomes
- Cave monsters (?)

Trivia

- Slightly inspired by the literature Domdaniel.
